en prominent alumni of the University of Virginia were elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity, according to an announcement recently made by Dr. W. H. Faulkner, president of the Beta chapter of the fraternity. The Phi Beta Kappa key is one of the highest scholastic honors given by the university and is significant of unusually excellent work in all studies.

The prominent alumni to be honored by the Beta chapter include: Dr. M. Ashby Jones, '95, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, of Atlanta, Ga.; Hampson Gary, '94, Minister to Switzerland; Walker D. Hines, '93, of New York City, recent governmental head of railroads; R. Tate Irvine, '93, of Big Stone Gap, Va.; former rector of the university; William Cabell Bruce, '86, of Baltimore, Md.; distinguished lawyer and author; Samuel Porcher, '90, of Philadelphia, of the Pennsylvania Railroad system; and Dr.

York City, chief ophthalmologist of the Cornell Medical School.

Mrs. Proctor Brown, of Big Stone Gap, Va., will be leaving this week for Chicago, where she will be a pupil of Joseph Lhevinne, the celebrated Russian pianist. She will be accompanied by her little son, Proctor, Jr., and will not return before September 1 to resume her regular schedule of teaching. Mrs. Brown is state president of the Virginia Federation of Music Clubs. Mr. and Mrs.
K. C. Campbell, of Bristol, will occupy Mrs. Brown's home during her absence.—Bristol Herald Courier.

Carico-Snapp Marriage.
Miss Helen Carico, of Big Stone Gap, Virginia, and Mr.
William G. Snapp, of Glade Spring, Virginia, were quietly married at the residence of Rev.
John Scherer in Bristol yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Snapp left last night on a northern trip and will after a week return and go to Lazewell, Va., to make their home. Mrs. Snapp formerly lived here and is a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. M. P. Carico.—

Sunday School Work

By Mrs. W. S. Goss.

To have a live church its members must be earnestly at work doing things worth while.
In no other branch of the church can work be done so well and make the opportunity for definite work by so great a number as in the modern Sunday school.

Up to date Sunday school work is thoroughly organized and all the prominent denominations, 22 in number, work hand in hand, with the international officers; having the same standards for each one, as to organization, literature and training for service.

Each denomination and some other houses have published many books on every phase of Sunday school work so one can learn easily and thoroughly.
Every attraction, Biblical information and other helps have been prepared and Sunday schools everywhere are working to the possibilities of more efficient work and we in Wise county must try to overcome every difficulty that prevents us from having the ideal school.

We all recognize how earnestly the leaders in each denomination are urging their people to launch out and do more in their schools. The international are just as earnestly urging the work of each school. This touches us even more directly, in a way, than the denominational work, viz.
Our state is already organized;
at a meeting in the community house at Norton the last week of July we desire to organize the county, following which the county president will try to organize each district and each district president and his work era will keep in touch with each school in their district;
both denominational and union schools, so when the Sunday school census are called for information can be given at once from the district or county president.

If every denominational Sunday school is trying to build up the work in your school and the state, county and district work ers, visit you and work with the very same standards as your denominations does, you will soon recognize that two boosters can do more work than one.

When you look over the county, see the hundreds of children, old and young, count the number of churches and Sunday schools; meet the strong ministerial force; see the work being done by our missionary and Y. M. C. A. workers; and recognize the amount of time and energy many very busy men and women of our county are giving to this phase of Christian work. We feel sure we are on the eve of a great Sunday school boom.

What if we must remodel our churches for departmental work. It pays. We must find a way to make it. It is exactly what the business man does to make his business pay.

Delightful Card Party.

Mrs. T. R. Cochran, assisted by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Low, gave a delightful card party last Tuesday morning from eleven to one o'clock.
"Hearts" was played. The players changed tables after every hand, which added pleasantly to the sociability of the occasion. Three charming prizes were awarded, Mrs.
Chukley winning the first prize, Mrs. Prescott the "cut" and Mrs. C. C. Cochran, the consolation. A delicious salad course was served at one o'clock. Those present were: Mesdames, Alsover, Alexander, Pierson, Chukley, Taggart, Scott, Prescott, Fox, Sewing, Bullitt, Sayers, Kelly, Rhoads, Cochran, Graher, Warner, Tinsley, Miller and Miss Ramsey.

One serious drawback to being a favorite son is the certainty of going back into the darkness of eclipse after the campaign is over.

HURD-COLE

Dan Cupid never wearies, and wedding bells repeatedly ring.
A wedding of interest took place last Wednesday, June 16, when Mr. W. L. Hurd, of East Stone Gap, and Miss Myrtle Cole, of Exeter, were quietly married at Wise, Va. The happy couple, attended by Mrs.
Trent, of Exeter, motored by Big Stone Gap, picked up Rev.
A. L. Shumate, the pastor of the Baptist church, and then drove immediately to Wise, reaching there about noon. The license was promptly procured, and the party slipped up to the Hotel Parlor, and the preacher briefly, but solemnly heard their vows and pronounced Mr. Hurd and Miss Cole, husband and wife.
Lunch was then served, and with nervous strain always incident to a wedding ceremony all over, the bounties provided by our host, Mr. Dotson, were greatly enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurd then mo-tered back to Appalachia, where they boarded the Southern train for parts unknown, going via Bristol.

Mr. Hurd is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Hurd, of East Stone Gap, and he holds a responsible position with the Stonega Coke and Coal Company. Miss Cole is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cole, of Exeter, Va. A host of friends offer congratulations, and wish these two fine young people abounding joy and success throughout the years to come.
They plan to make their future home at Big Stone Gap.

the denominational work, viz.
house at Norton the last week
each school in their district;
both denominational and union
from the district or county

MAE MURRAY, the pretty stage and screen player who is featured in the first George Fitzmaurice production, "On With the Dance," which is becoming to the Amazu Theatre for two days commencing Thursday, is another of those talented young actresses who have risen to stardom from the ranks of the follies. Miss Murray was a hit in the 1915 edition of the Ziegfeld show. On the authority of James Montgomery Flagg, she has the world's most comedienne profile.

In addition to her rare beauty and stage talents, Miss Murray is a dancer of extraordinary grace and ability. She was a headliner in vaudeville for several years. She has lately been devoting her efforts to motion pictures exclusively and has starred in ingenue and straight dramatic roles.

"On With the Dance" presents her as a pleasure loving orphan who is thrown up against some members of New York's "fast set" as well as representatives of the worthwhile class. How she overcomes her baser impulses and works out her destiny happily is the theme of what is declared to be a more than ordinarily interesting photoplay. George Fitzmaurice directed and Ouida Berger furnished the scenario.
It is a Paramount Arclight ad-
